Media Release
For immediate use

We are sad to advise the tragic death of one of our crew members on our deepwater factory vessel, the San Granit, earlier today. Our thoughts are with the family, friends and workmates of our team member as they are dealing with this terrible incident. As of now, we are unable to provide more detail about this situation, as the facts are still being established and we need to allow the relevant authorities to do their work. The family has been advised and we are offering every support that we can.
